An Unsung Hero is someone who puts in extra effort to help others. They always try to help the people that they know like their friends and family or people at school or at their job. An Unsung Hero can also be someone who helps encourage others. An Unsung Hero is a person who does not usually get thanked for all of the wonderful things that they do. Their good deeds usually do not get recognized and they are uncelebrated. This issue of LDM is intended to recognize these amazing people.

This issue of LDM is dedicated to our very own SUZANNE YANUSKA... one of Our Many Unsung Heroines!

Interview with Arlene Virga

By Peter Gardner

Arlene Virga is the head of the Yorkville Youth Athletic Association (YYAA). YYAA is an organization that runs a lot of sports for children who live all around the city. YYAA started in 1986, Arlene has been the head since 1995. She makes sure everything runs smoothly at YYAA. Right now I play three of these sports, Baseball, Basketball, and Flag Football. There is also Hockey and Tennis. Arlene says she would like to try to start Tackle Football next fall. The favorite part of Arlene's job is getting to watch the children play sports. The YYAA office is located at 534 East 88th Street, but the gyms and fields are all over the city. Arlene is my unsung hero because without her many children would not be able to play sports on the weekends. For more info go to www.yyaa.org

Green Bay Packers

By Josh Dunst

In their history the Packers have won Super Bowls I, II, and XXXI. The Packers record since 1999 (the year I was born) is 79-56-0, their overtime record since 1999 is 5-1-0. Their outdoor record is 62-31-0 and indoor record is 10-11-0. Against the NFC they are 54-41-0 and versus the AFC 17-18. On the road they are 36-29 and at home they are 46-24. This year Brett Favre has broken some amazing records. He passed Dan Marino's record of most all time touchdown passes (420). He also broke the record for most interceptions thrown. Favre is one of the greatest Quarterbacks of all time.

Brett Favre

By Jared Feldman

Brett Favre was named Sportsman of the Year for 2007 by Sports Illustrated. He is one of the NFL's best Quarterbacks. When he was in high school Brett was in a really bad car accident. They thought he might not ever fully recover. However, he did and went on to the NFL! He was drafted by the Atlanta Falcons who then traded him to the Packers where he has played most of his career! I remember a game this year between the Packers and the Broncos. It went to overtime. The Packers won the toss. They chose to receive. On the first play Brett Favre threw a pass to Greg Jennings and they scored a touchdown to win the game! That was one of Brett Favre's best passes!

Three Guys: A Review

By Annabelle Buttenwieser

Madison Ave. (Between 88th & 89th Streets)

Last weekend I went to Three Guys Restaurant with my whole family. We go there about 3 times a month! I usually order the same thing - Chicken Fingers! They are good, good, good! My dad ordered a hamburger. My brother ordered a hot dog. Mom ordered a salad. Charlotte, my little sister, ordered Chicken Fingers, also. Fries came with the Chicken Fingers. They were just right. The corn isn't great. My brother and I had apple pie for dessert. It was great! We had Pie A La Mode. The food at Three Guys is really good. The service at Three Guys is okay. They have waiters who are dressed in black and white. They are very friendly. They know my family and me because we go there a lot. Three Guys is a clean restaurant. Three Guys gets my top rating of 3 napkins!
